INTRODUCTION

A. Purpose of Request for Proposal (RFP)

The purpose of this Proposal is to procure biomedical equipments and supplies for the biomarker component for conducting the Wave 1 of the Longitudinal Ageing Study of India (LASI) project during 2015-17.

B. Background

The Longitudinal Ageing Study in India (LASI) is a full-scale, national survey of scientific investigation of the health, economic, social, and determinants and consequences of population ageing in India. LASI is envisioned as a nationally representative survey of 60,250 older adults in age 45+ in India and 30 states, all union territories that will be conducted every 2 years and projected to run for the next 25 year. Internationally harmonized, de-identified panel data will be collected enabling cross-state analyses within India and cross-national analyses of ageing, health, economic status, and social behaviors.

LASI will allow a better understanding of India's adult health problems and population ageing processes and will inform the design of appropriate evidence-based policies for adults and older people in India.

Survey design:

LASI main wave adopts longitudinal cluster sample research design. LASI is a biennial survey and will cover nationally representative sample of 60,250 interviews of persons aged 45+ years and their spouses regardless of age in sampled households. LASI will use three instruments, namely:

- a) Community Survey (administered at community level, village/rural and Urban/ward),
- b) Household questionnaire (administered one per household) and
- c) Individual questionnaire (administered to each respondent in age 45+ and their Spouses).

C. Specific Objectives and Scope of LASI

The main goal of LASI is to collect credible scientific data on burden of disease, functional health, health care and social and economic wellbeing of older adults. LASI data will be collected based on internationally comparable research design, tools and adopt cutting edge scientific methods to provide the foundation for credible and acceptable data – for national policy and long-term scientific research. The main objective of LASI is to provide comprehensive scientific longitudinal data on the following major subject namely:

- 1) Health: Disease burden & risk factors (reported and measured)

- 2) Health care and health care financing
- 3) Social: Family and social network and Welfare Programmes
- 4) Economic: income, wealth and expenditure, work, Retirement and Pension

D. Introduction of Biomarkers

Biomarker, or biological marker, generally refers to a measurable indicator of some of the biological state or health condition. Biomarkers are often measured and evaluated to examine normal biological processes, pathogenic processes, or pharmacologic responses to a therapeutic intervention. Biomarkers are used in many scientific fields.

Biomarkers are considered as an important tool for understanding the association of socioeconomic status with health and mortality. Biomarkers can be useful for studying a variety of social behaviors and environments, burden of health risk and chronic disease conditions.

The inclusion of various ranges of biomarkers is particularly important for India, where access to healthcare tends to be limited. India's aging population is a risk for a very high burden of undiagnosed diseases. With low literacy level in this age group a significant level of self-reporting bias exists. Biomarkers provide useful insight formation and state level programme and policy interventions and more accurate assessment of burden of disease and health conditions

LASI covers wide range of direct physical examinations: physical tests and markers. The biomarker collection will be done in the field by following the developed standardized protocols and procedures. LASI Main wave1 & 2 aims to estimate measured health risk morbidity indicators among eligible members of household individuals.

LASI biomarker comprises four components namely:

i. Anthropometric Measurements:

- Height
- Weight
- Waist Circumference
- Hip Circumference

ii. Functional Health Markers:

- Blood Pressure and Pulse rate
- Lung Function Test
- Vision Test :Near and Distance visual acuity

iii. Performance Based Markers:

- Grip Strength
- Timed-walk
- Balance test

iv. Dried Blood Spot (DBS) based Markers

- C-reactive Protein (CRP) (CVD)
- Epstein Bar virus (Immunity)
- Glycosylated Hemoglobin (HbA1c) (Diabetes)
- Hemoglobin (Hb) (Anaemia)

E. Biomarker Field Implementation

The LASI survey team will consist of one supervisor, two male investigators, two female investigators and one health investigator. LASI Main wave 1 covers the Biomarker component which would require a health coordinator for each Field Agency. During the survey, health investigators will be required to collect Biomarker information which will be directly entered into CAPI on day to day basis.

F. Survey Organization

LASI Main wave I is being conducted at the request of the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare in which IIPS being the nodal institution has a primary role in the planning for the survey and in the analysis and dissemination of the survey results.

The International Institute for Population Sciences (IIPS) will serve as the implementing agency for LASI. IIPS will take responsibility for operational matters including planning and conducting fieldwork, processing of collected data and organizing the writing and distribution of reports. IIPS will furnish then necessary central office space for survey personnel and will undertake to secure transport for the data collection activities. Staff from IIPS will be responsible for overseeing the day-to-day technical operations including recruitment and training of field and data processing staff and the supervision of the office and field operations.

G. Supplies and Equipment

The requisite Biomarker equipment and consumables for training and field work will be centrally procured by IIPS and made available to the Field Agency. Gold standard survey protocol and technologies are used in conducting the Biomarker testing in LASI survey.
